I have succesfully obtained my user's access token (by logging in to facebook first) and I know my user's facebook id. Now I need to know my user's email. When I try to find it in facebook's Graph API Explorer I get the response: { "error": { "message": "Unknown path components:", "type": "OAuthException", "code": 10 } } When I try to obtain a user profile for this id (this is the only way I know how to obtain a user profile), I get the same response. Is there any way to get the email of a user using facebook id? A: It appears there's no way to do that. I got a response on a related SO question: No, there is no email associated with a Facebook user in any way, shape or form. Facebook user id's are the same as fbid, and fbid is a property of the object graph, whereas the user's email is a separate object with a different id (uid). It's also quite a bit more secure (not being part of the object graph).
